SEASON'S GREETINGS

You're on my tree... as we decorated our Christmas tree this year, my wife and I reflected on each ornament and who gave them to us. In many cases, the ornaments were made by family members or friends. Some are still with us and some have passed on. One of the blessings of our Christmas traditions is to remember the people who have contributed to our lives as we hang the ornaments on our tree.

This made me think about our connectedness as people. Each of us makes a mark on the lives of those around us, and within the Baptist Housing family this includes our team, our residents, and their loved ones. Just as a decorated Christmas tree reflects the connections and love and generosity between people, similarly our lives reflect the relationships we build, treasure, and remember forever. Thank you for being a part of the Baptist Housing story and may you experience the joy, wonder, and true meaning of Christmas as you celebrate!
